DOUBLE DAFFODIL, IRENE COPELAND

DAFFODILS --- TULIPS --- IRIS
FALL 1953

BEERSHEBA

Elma, Washington
May, 1953

Dear Friend:

Thanks, yes many thanks, for the grand response to our 1952 fall catalog. We sincerely hope the McLean bulbs, shipped to thousands of home gardens, brought much pleasure this spring.

We have had a perfect growing season here—a very wet but mild winter and spring. Our crop should be one of the finest ever. We believe we will have enough bulbs for all.

Reports from Holland indicate the bulb fields were not damaged by the winter floods; however, greenhouse operators are swamping us with orders for Washington grown bulbs—they can't afford to plant anything but strong well grown bulbs.

We want to give our mail order customers the finest service possible. We can do this best if we have your order early. As soon as your list is received we will reserve the bulbs for shipment at the proper planting time.

I am looking forward to the pleasure of personally selecting the finest quality bulbs for your kind orders.

Cordially yours,
ADDIE McLEAN

GALANTHUS

GALANTHUS

(Snowdrops)

Snowdrops deserve a place in every home garden as they are among the first to bloom in the spring. They are more accurately but less commonly known by their Greek name Galanthus, meaning "Milk Flower". The small bulbs should be planted from two to four inches deep quite close together. The flowers are small and dainty; particularly effective in masses, under evergreens like cedars or in thin woodlands. If planted in grassland and woodland the natural conditions will give a mulch in winter, but in other positions they should be carefully covered with coarse straw or well decayed manure.

GALANTHUS NIVALIS. Single.

The Wonder Bulb COLCHICUM

A most interesting feat of Colchicums is their ability to flower from dry bulbs without soil or water. This makes them valuable novelty gifts for friends and most fascinating for shut-ins to watch develop.

The flat based, clean bulbs may be set on a table, on the window sill or in a container where they will start flowering. After flowering in the house, the bulbs should be planted in the garden at once. Good loamy soil is preferred with the tip of the long bulbs placed one to two inches under the surface.

In very warm climates partial shade is preferable, otherwise they succeed best in an open sunny border.

Colchicums are charming and interesting plants, hardy, persistent, and of easy culture. These great crocus-like flowers carpet the ground in September and October without foliage, the foliage appearing early in the spring, usually lasting until July.
